Next steps

Proving your UK immigration status when travelling

Always give yourself plenty of time to check both your personal details are up to date and your eVisa information is correct before traveling. You can do this at: https://www.gov.uk/update-uk-visas-immigration-account-details.You may be delayed or denied boarding by carriers if you do not do this. You will still need to carry your current passport with you.

If you have any problems using the service or if your immigration status is incorrect you can contact us at: https://www.gov.uk/contact-ukvi-inside-outside-uk.

Sharing information about your immigration status

Employers, landlords in England, or other organisations, may need to check your immigration status, for example, to check whether you are allowed to work, rent somewhere to live or access public services.

You can use the 'view and prove' service at: https://www.gov.uk/view-prove-immigration-status using your UKVI account sign in details to share relevant information about your immigration status.

You will need to make sure that you select the correct reason for sharing your information, so that the appropriate share code is generated. Once you generate your share code, you can pass it on to the person you want to share your status information with. The share code will give that person time limited access to the relevant information. You will also need to give them your date of birth so they can prove they have your permission to check your information.

When accessing services provided by UK government departments and other public authorities, like benefits and healthcare, we will increasingly make the relevant information about your immigration status available automatically. For more information go to https://www.gov.uk/guidance/living-in-the-uk-applying-from-within-the-uk

If you have a BRP from a previous grant of permission

If you have a BRP from a previous grant of permission, keep your expired BRP as it may help with future applications to stay in the UK. You may also want it for your personal records.

When your permission to stay ends

If you want to stay in the UK after your current permission ends, you must make a new application:

- Before your current permission ends, and
- No more than 28 days before your current permission ends.
